Training participants will learn about the subjective experience of hearing distressing voices, increase their understanding of the day-to-day challenges facing people with psychiatric disabilities, become more empathic toward voice hearers, and be inspired to consider changes in clinical practice which would better address the needs of people who hear distressing voices.

Upon completion of this training session, attendees should be able to:

- Become more empathic to the warning signs that someone is hearing voices
- Better understand the phenomenon of hearing distressing voices
- Address the needs of people who may be hearing voices
